Fees: $6 for spayed and neutered dogs and $11 for unaltered. If not already on file at the Town Office, proof of current rabies vaccination must be provided at time of registration.

For more information contact the Town Office at (207) 863-4343 or stop in to register Fido.

There have been several loose dog incidents recently where dogs have caused harm to pets and livestock on other people's property. DOG OWNERS – the Town follows the State's Leash Law: It is unlawful for any dog to run at large except when it is used for hunting. *At large means off the premises of the owner and not under the control of any person

If you witness a dog at large, please TAKE PICTURES of the loose animal(s) and report the incident immediately to Animal Control Officer James Knowlton (207) 756-0209 If you are unable to reach him, please contact Knox County Dispatch (207) 593-9132

Posting incidents on Facebook is not an effective way to resolve this growing problem. #doyourpartvh

Preserve Hikes

Hiking is one of the activities we can do safely together with friends. Dress warmly, in layers that can be removed as needed, stay hydrated, remember the limited daylight, and enjoy! For a list of all Vinalhaven trails:

Kathleen “Katie” Mary Durkee

Limington – Kathleen “Katie” Mary Durkee, age 71, went home to be with her loved ones in heaven on February 3rd, 2021. She was an incredibly strong and selfless woman who left peacefully after fighting courageously for the past year and a half.

Kate was born in Vinalhaven Maine on November 4th, 1949 to Earl and Shirley Hamilton. After graduating from Vinalhaven high, she went on to graduate from the University of Maine Farmington with a BA in elementary education. She taught grades K-7 at Islesboro elementary school before becoming a wonderful homemaker and devoted mother to three children.

She also found time to substitute teach at various schools and was an active member of her church over the years. She coordinated many activities using her amazingly creative and artistic talents. To know her was to love her as there was not a purer soul that has ever lived nor a more loving and selfless mother.

She is survived by her husband—George Durkee IV—her children Joeseeph Durkee, Britton Durkee, and Abigail Durkee; Her sister Deborah Webster, sister Theresa Peterson, and brother Earl Hamilton.

Black River Vermont

The river unwinds into fields
a black snake on snow
its edges crusted in ice
the bracken flattened
where deer lay last night
a lone hawk searches
the small valley

I left the fireside to ski to catch the last light before it went over the mountains
the only sound -- the scrape
of my boards, as birds hunker down in the cold a sudden train whistle calls us to sleep

Under a gibbous moon
this whitened peace lays on the land like a puffed up quilt, my tracks seam the edges of dens and burrows sealing in the night

I do not disturb the living, breathing land
as it lays fallow under its winter coat, I want only to breathe it in, in its simplicity
before I too find rest.

The use of "shotgun" to refer Riding shotgun was used to describe the guard who rode alongside a stagecoach driver, ready to use his shotgun to ward off bandits or hostile Native Americans.

"Shotgun "

With my head down walking out of Fairway Market, three children run haphazardly past me. The oldest boy no older than 8 yells " I got Shotgun " the trailing two younger boys scream " no fair, you have to be touching the car, DDAAADD ! , he's not playing fair ", crying erupts from the non-winners. I catch the Dads eye and say the proverbial " been there, done that ", he and I both laugh. Believe it or not, this phrase was coined in 1919. I used it, my kids did, now a new generation carries on.

Parris Norton

July 2, 1842—May 6, 1864

Private, Company G., 28th Maine

Enlisted October 1862

Discharged August 1863.

Parris was wounded at the Battle of Donaldsonville, LA, on June 28, 1862. He applied for a pension in November 1863 because "while on guard a Rebel fired at him and shot off his left arm or so badly shattered it that his arm had to be amputated above the elbow."

Parris married Sophronia Sellers on September 25, 1862 on Vinalhaven. While his pension application was still pending, he drowned when his boat capsized at Perry's Creek. His mother, Emeline Norton, applied for a dependent's pension in 1883 because she attributed his death to the loss of his arm. The pension was denied since his death did not occur while Parris was in service.

Backyard Composting and Rain Barrel Sale!

Knox-Lincoln Soil & Water Conservation District (SWCD), in cooperation with Maine Resource and Recovery Association, is again offering local residents the opportunity to improve soil and conserve water right in their own backyards at deep discount prices! It's easy with the tried-and-true 80-gallon Earth Machine backyard composter and the 55-gallon System rain barrel. Both are made of recycled materials, designed to fit into any landscape, and are offered at wholesale prices. The Earth Machine composter has an "in at the top/out at the bottom" design and a 10-year warranty. The System rain barrel fits under a downspout to take advantage of roof run-off for garden watering and has built-in mosquito mesh and overflow capability.

We also are offering a 3' x 4' trap wire bin made by Brooks Trap Mill in Thomaston that has a  $\frac{3}{4}$  cubic yard capacity. This larger bin, made of coated lobster trap wire, is perfect for yard debris and has the seal of approval from some of Maine's top composting experts.

To make it even easier to convert kitchen scraps into soil, we also have accessories: a 2-gallon Sure Close kitchen scrap pail with vented, locking lid that keeps odors in and flies out; Wingdigger compost aerator and turner to mix compost layers and decrease compaction without straining your back; and the REOtemp compost thermometer with a 20" stem to monitor interior temperatures and turn anyone into a serious composting enthusiast! Prices for all items are well below suggested retail.

Ordering deadline is Monday, April 12, 2021. Either order online at <https://www.knox-lincoln.org/backyard-sale/> or download an order form on our website and send with check. Scheduled pickups for composting items will be in early June at the District office located at 893 West Street (Rt 90), Rockport.

For more information or to request an order form by mail, contact Knox-Lincoln SWCD at 596-2040 or julie@knox-lincoln.org.

Caption (all items): All composting supplies and rain barrels are available for pre-order only. Get one of each and be ready to conserve precious water and make compost to improve garden soil.

Think Spring!

“The only bubble in the flat champagne of February is Valentine’s Day. It was no accident that our ancestors pinned Valentine’s Day on February’s shirt: he or she lucky enough to have a lover in frigid, antsy February has cause for celebration, indeed.”

Columns

So these are the columns I heard of
at home in my childhood - Here in the wondrous Cathedral of John the Divine.
Worshippers, artists, and passers-by
think of their beauty;
I, pondering, think of their insular birthplace, and mine.

For I know the quarry of granite from which they were taken,
The spot where they waited for ages, remote and obscure,
Until they were chosen as worthy of such elevation
To rise and endure.

God of cathedrals, and likewise of small rocky islands,
Who can foretell where the stone
for Thy wonders may be?
That which the builders reject may be head of the corner
If worthy of Thee.

A.L.G.

www.vinalhavenrealty.com

I live on an island twelve miles off the Maine coast. It is a place of striking natural beauty and there often are moments on my morning walk that literally take my breath away. When I see a spectacular sunrise, or a bald eagle flying overhead, I find myself rehearsing how I will describe it to my wife when I get home. I don't plan to do that, it just happens that way.

At first, I was self-critical, asking myself "Are you really that incapable of just being in the moment, giving your full attention to what is going on right now that you have to rehearse how you are going to talk to your wife about it?" After a few days of obligatory self-flagellation, I came up with another explanation. I think I rehearsed how I would describe it to my wife because the experience was not complete for me until I shared it with someone else.

It is only through intimate relationships that we become most fully ourselves. Each relationship elicits a different aspect of who we potentially are. It's not just that we act and feel differently in the contexts of different relationships, it is that we literally are different people in each relationship. The self is created in the process of engaging in intimate relationships with others. When a child is born, if someone picks that child up, gazes at them adoringly, and holds them closely, that child understands herself as lovable in that moment and becomes lovable. She has no other frame of reference; she could not at that moment be anything else. If, however, that same child when born is abandoned in a trash bin, that child not only will experience herself as unlovable but will actually be unlovable. Again, she could not at that moment be anything else.

On my morning walks, I often run into a neighbor and stop to chat for a few minutes. We don't talk about anything deeply personal, mostly just the weather (it is Maine in the winter after all!), or politics. I've been shocked to notice how much those conversations lift my mood and brighten my entire outlook on the day. I've come to understand how much I have relied on these simple everyday conversations before COVID, and how much the isolation of the pandemic has depleted my vitality. I understand now the importance of the brief chats I had every day with my colleagues in the break room, or the owner of the dry cleaners who read my book in Korean, or the cashier at the lunch place I ate every week who knows me and asks how I'm doing. Unfortunately, it's only when these relationships were taken away that I came to understand how important they had been.

I assume that I am not alone in this, and that others of you are making similar discoveries about your lives. I think we've all done a wonderful job finding creative ways to stay connected to the people who matter most to us, finding ways to gather together for joyous events like birthdays and weddings and sad event like memorials or saying goodbye to loved ones. I think a lot of us may have overlooked some of the other more casual everyday relationships that buoyed our lives, and whose absence has left us depleted, fatigued, and despairing. I wonder how much of what has been called "COVID fatigue" is attributable to the loss of these everyday relationships.

What can we do? The problem is that it is hard to have spontaneous interactions with people when you are stuck in your home, so I think we have to get outside as often as we possibly can. We have to get outside, wearing a mask and socially distancing, and go places where there are other people (who are also wearing masks and socially distancing). We need to get outside every day if at all possible, in good weather and bad (you won't melt in the rain, as my mother often reminded us). Get outside when we feel like it, and get outside when we don't feel like it, maybe especially when we don't feel like it. As we have learned to say about many parts of our lives during this awful pandemic, it's not the same, but it's a hell of a lot better than nothing.

Stay safe.

Portrait of a Graduate is a School and Community process undertaken by the School and Vinalhaven residents supported by the Island Institute and Rural Aspirations to define the skills and knowledge that we want our students to have to be successful in life, college, work, and as future citizens of our local and global community.

The first part of the process involves gathering information (doing research, conducting focus groups and interviews, and administering THIS Community-wide Survey).
