To all his friends that searched and searched, and never gave up, thank you. To deputy Lemoi, the EMTs, and the Maine warden dive team, that recovered him for us, thank you. To Bill Chilles for guiding us through the service and everyone that came to honor him, and all those hugs, thank you. For all the food, cards, calls, and visits, we were so touched, we love you and thank you all.

THE OBSERVER

I was relaxing at home, enjoying an afternoon martini and reading of the tranquil existence of Penobscot Bay Islanders, when there was an aggressive knock on the door. I opened it and there stood my grandson, Finn and, while it seemed like an effort, he looked very serious. Behind him were two even tougher looking characters, Brady and Nathan. They were an intimidating trio, and I got the feeling I shouldn't cross them.

"Got a rake?" Finn asked without so much as a 'Hi, Grampa.'

"Yes, I've got a rake, why?"

Brady stepped up, nudged Finn aside and, with a look that said Don't ask so many questions, he announced, "We're going to rake your lawn. How much?"

"How much?" I asked hesitantly.

"How much you gonna give us", he demanded.

I screwed up my courage and suggested it would depend on how good a job they did. They raced across the street to Pat's and borrowed two more rakes and got to work. After an hour or so they all came in and asked for a glass of water. Finn and Brady dispensed with theirs and, after Brady asked, "Where would you like me to put the glass?" they both headed back to work.

Nathan, though, had settled in at a rocking chair next to the wood stove. He asked me about the house, about my re-modelling, told me I'd done well and had a nice wood stove and then got up, drained his glass of water, said, "It's been a pleasure chatting with you.", and got back to work. They did a great job. pc

On Thanksgiving Day, Pleasant River Chapel will be delivering free Thanksgiving dinners between 11:30 AM -12:30 PM to anyone in our community as our holiday gift. Our menu will be roasted turkey breast, stuffing, gravy, mashed potatoes, squash, cranberry jell, a dinner roll, and a piece of either apple or pumpkin pie.

Meals can be ordered through Monday, November 21st. We do not want anyone who wishes a meal to miss it. You can email Pete at ppedersen1842@gmail.com or call him at (207) 551 4483. You need to share how many dinners, the kind of pie that you want and your address for our drivers.

Remember that this meal could be for you or an island neighbor. Perhaps, it could be a treat if you go out for dinner and do not have any leftovers.

We have been blessed by receiving donations for all of the butter, milk, & cranberry jelly. We still need apple or pumpkin pies.

On Thanksgiving Day, we will need more drivers as well. If you're interested, please give Pete a call.

Thank you for your continued support.

It's a blustery sunny day and I am watching waves fold their lace over ledges wondering what drove the tall ships home from the sea, what is the attraction of home, of sea and why do I spend my nights awake mothering the wind?

NATIONAL RURAL HEALTH DAY

NOVEMBER 17TH, 2022

Today is National Rural Health Day! Launched in 2011, National Rural Health Day was an idea that developed out of a vision to formally recognize those whose work and contributions make a positive impact on the vast and varied healthcare needs of people living, working and raising their families in Rural America.

We would like to honor the memory of Dr. Ana Balfour for National Rural Health Day. Dr. Balfour came to Vinalhaven from the Isle of Wight in 1942 to serve in Dr. Earle's stead while he joined the war effort. Though she could not maneuver an automobile due to losing a leg in an air raid in England, her dedication to her patients was unparalleled: many remember her children pulling her on a sled to visit patients in the winter! ICMS is thankful for her resilience and the impact she had on our community.

Siphoning 101

Being trained in fire suppression and fire related issues it always seemed like a bad idea to fill up jugs with gasoline on the mainland and bring them over to the island. I special ordered a Chevy all-wheel-drive van with a very large gas tank. I would fill it up in Rockland and fill up all my gas jugs at the farm. I was a siphoning pro.

I came over from the mainland one day and got waded into the Sandbar. After drinking many Perrier waters, I headed to the farm and pulled out my trusty siphon.

What happened next was unimaginable. Quite a bit of gasoline came into my mouth and being of sound mind and sound body, I proceeded to swallow it. EMS protocols in Massachusetts for gas ingestion were a glass of milk followed by a period of time of not drinking anything else.

Still under the influence of those Perrier's, I thought it would be a good idea to call Poison Control in the state of Maine to see if their protocol was different. The phone was answered by a lovely female voice that asked me what my emergency was. I delayed and stumbled and finally said, "A friend of mine just swallowed gasoline, while trying to siphon." She said, "please put him on the phone." Again, I stumbled and said, "he can't talk right now."

She asked me how much gasoline I had swallowed, and I answered at least a mouth full. She asked me what I had done post gasoline ingestion and I told her I drank a glass of milk, and I would not be drinking or eating anything else till tomorrow morning. She told me that was the correct protocol and asked me how I knew that? Sadly, I admitted I was an EMT out of state, I think I heard her laugh quietly off the phone. She said gasoline was one of the top five calls to Poison Control in the state of Maine...

I have relinquished my favorite siphoning hose. I can't even look at it. PTSD! I'm positive that will be the last thing I screw up?!
