THANK YOU!

What an arrival on the island last Sunday! Heartfelt thanks to Pat, Jim, Jeannie, Jeff, and the fire crew. Due to their quick arrival and their expertise, I was able to make another one a few days later. After a beautiful helicopter ride up Penobscot Bay, I spent a few days at Eastern Maine Med. I was so happy to return to the island, ready to enjoy its people and its beauty. Many thanks to folks in the PRC, VHQ, VHKn, my swimming buddies, neighbors and friends. Your thoughtfulness and expressions of love will never be forgotten.

TAKE A BOOK • SHARE A BOOK

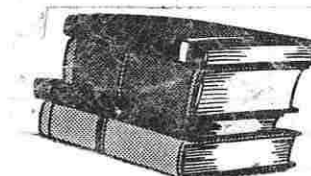

Vinalhaven Reads is so excited to FINALLY be able to install our Little Free Library (LFL)! Dave Moyer built it for us almost 2 years ago and students in Steve Burgess's class at school painted it. As you can guess, COVID threw a monkey wrench into our installation plans, but we are now ready to install it within the next few weeks at the ferry parking lot. Thanks to Mary Lou & Joe Upton for doing the heavy lifting for us!

The LFL is for anyone who would like to take a book on the ferry to read. There will be books available for children and some for teens and adults as well. We ask that you only take one or two books at a time, and either return when you are done or leave another book on the shelf for someone else to enjoy.

For more information please visit LittleFreeLibrary.org.

Many many thanks to Dave Moyer and Steve Burgess and his students! This project would never have happened without your hard work and sharing your amazing skills!

Vinalhaven Reads is committed to getting books into the hands of all island children. We work with many wonderful community organizations to help accomplish this. Special thanks to the Lions, the Land Trust, VH School, the Town Library and the Maine State Ferry System for prioritizing literacy in our community.

Tidbits from the Vinalhaven Historical Society

A Strange Visitor: Moose are so plentiful in Knox County these days that they do not occasion much comment, but it did yesterday morning when our faithful Green's Island Correspondent called up to say that a cow moose had been contentedly grazing near Heron Neck Light Station. In the past 16 years the island had sheltered but one other wild animal, to the knowledge of man, and that was a fox. Judge then, the astonishment of the little island colony when the members of it saw this big moose stalking majestically around, with water dripping from its sides, doubtless of a recent swim, probably from Vinalhaven, where a moose had aroused much curiosity the previous day. The visitor arrived before sunrise, and remained in the community the better part of an hour. As the island contains about 300 acres, and is quite heavily wooded, it is more than likely that the moose is still within the precincts of that domain. CG Sept. 29, 1927

Mrs. Minnie Smith entertained Thursday at a neighborhood children's picnic on Kittredge's Hill. About 30 were present. They enjoyed the playground which has recently been made possible for the boys and girls by Archie Beggs to whom much credit is due to his kindness and work. CG July 9, 1927

June 25, 2021 is the 232nd anniversary of Vinalhaven as an incorporated town.

MATINICUS ROCK: It may be interesting to some to know the fog whistle at this station for the month just passed sounded 327 hours and 15 minutes; and today, Aug. 1, we are listening to the same melodious whistle. July 1926, the whistle sounded 157 hours, and July 1925 we got 229 hours. A picnic party came from Matinicus Saturday much to our delight. This is the second picnic party to visit us this summer. A number of persons get an idea Matinicus Island and Matinicus Rock are one and the same place, but there are 5 miles between, all salt water. CG Aug. 4, 1927

James Webster recently celebrated his 10th birthday at his home. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Webster. Games were played and lunch was served on the lawn. The young host received many gifts. Those present were Charlotte & Constance Webster, William & Lucille Bruce, Rebecca & Junior Duncan, Ruth, Davis & Leonard Cribbs, Earl Hamilton, Ruth & Charles Wadsworth, Alton & Marion Oakes, Dorothy Conway, Bertyl Cedarburg, Charles, Alex & Madeline Newbold, Marion Webb, Henry Ewell, Evelin Roberts, Malcolm Whittington, Mrs. Agnes Oakes and Mrs. Basil Webster assisted in serving. June 30, 1931

Ira MacDonald and twin daughters Marjorie & Marguerite returned from the Snow Bowl Carnival in Camden. Courier-Gazette Feb 20, 1941

REMINDER
Parents of small children and pets please remember that it is extremely dangerous to leave your children and animals in a vehicle on hot summer days. Leaving windows slightly open does not provide adequate ventilation!

Letters from Fafa

My family spent every summer with my grandparents on the shores of Lake Michigan. We called my grandfather "Fafa" and my grandmother "Gama." Fafa (Harry Stiles) was an amateur naturalist. During the off seasons from 1952 (when we were 5 and 7) to 1955, Fafa would write letters to entertain us and maintain our interest in nature. I recently found copies of those letters in an old box of papers. Here is the fifth one in the series. Enjoy!
—David Wylie

The Black Snake

Hello children,

Remember the black snake that grandma found in the pump house at the cottage and Fafa caught it? We put it in a cage and kept it for a few weeks and then let it go. It quickly disappeared in the stones of the foundation.

Well tonight I have a story to tell you about that snake. A couple of weeks ago Fafa was in the basement of the cottage and noticed back in the corner hanging over the pipe from the furnace what looked like a piece of cloth. Was he angry! To think that someone would be so careless as to hang a cloth on a pipe when it might catch fire. So Fafa stormed over to remove it and what do you think it was? Our old black snake had climbed up on the pipe to shed its skin. I am sure from the size of the skin that it was the same snake. The skin is quite perfect and you can see it next summer.

Isn't it funny that a snake sheds its skin, but then a lot of animals do. Remember how many insects grow by shedding their skins for new and bigger ones. Well, old Mr. Snake does the same thing. As he grows and his skin gets too small for him, he just grows a new skin of the proper size underneath the old one and sheds the old one. (Wouldn't it be funny if we could crawl out of our clothes when we grow out of them and have a whole new outfit underneath?)

In shedding its skin, Mr. Snake literally turns its skin wrong side out as he crawls out of his skin. First the skin becomes loose around his head and then he rubs himself against stones or bushes or anything he can find. The skin finally gets comes off entirely and it is the turned the wrong side out, just like when you take your socks off, only Mr. Snake doesn't stop to turn it right side out again because he is never going to reuse it.

I bet you were wondering how, if the skin was already too small, he ever gets out of it. It doesn't stretch like your socks! It's really pretty simple when you remember the snake is scaly. The skin fits around each scale lapping over the edges. When it loosens, it flattens out and becomes bigger around it sort of like a pleated skirt of mommy's. When the pleats are all pressed it fits and but those pleats get mussed and unpressed, the skirt gets two times too big. The skin comes off completely except for the mouth parts. You can see the entire shape of the snake even a part of the skin that covered Mr. Snake's eyes.

Generally I can find some good for all animals and the reason for them in nature. I am not too sure about snakes, but not because some kinds are poisonous. After all, we have poisonous plants, but we learn what they are and how to avoid them. We also just have to learn about poisonous snakes and avoid them. True the snakes eat lots of rodents, especially those bothersome little field mice, but they also eat birds and bird eggs. We should not condemn any animal just because he eats other animals for that is part of the balance in nature and even our favorite birds eat other animals. As long as we have snakes we should learn to know them and not be like so many people who have a hysterical fear of them.

There's one very funny snake that I must tell you about called a hog-nose snake. He wants to seem like a vicious old fellow, so if he is molested, he raises his head high. He can make it twice as wide as it really is. Then he blows out air with an awful hiss. He might strike furiously, but as often as not he forgets to open his mouth! If this doesn't scare you away, he has another tactic. He drops his head into the dirt and rolls over on his back. He sure looks like a dead snake. You can pick him up and he is limp and seems lifeless. But you can fool him into showing he is not dead. Someone must have told all Mr. hognose snake that a dead snake always lies on his back. But if you put him back on the ground on his belly, he quickly shows he's alive by turning over on his back. Foolish fellow isn't he?

Fafa

Cracking The Egg

I've seen the smile on a flower the grin on a dog, the wink of the moon, the glare of the sun and I appreciate the way wind moves me or the grass, the waves, the leaves on trees appreciate the rushing of clouds toward a destination only they know, and I wonder at a world driven by wants instead of needs where one emotes and reacts without care and walls get built for prevention as if there weren't enough for all, where security becomes a scare tactic used as a bribe for peace, but sharing is a lesson learned when 'mine' got dropped in childhood and we all grew up, or did we?

And if it's all just energy turning this wheel then where's the generator, and why the wobble now and then? Is it to remind us that we're not in charge, that control was never our best suit that being here is not an accident or some mad god's idea of fun, or isn't it just that living feeling loving laughing is a boon to share in kindness while admiring even the smallest blossom between the stones on every day's path?

I can't imagine how much force is needed to push aside the soil sprout a pale green shoot from seed and become a plant, a vegetable, a tree. I suppose I shouldn't be surprised as it's the same for you or me to have grown to crawl, run and leap at life and like the smallest bird use all the courage and strength we have to crack the egg and be.

Updated clipping from surviving papers of, Vinalhaven born, Light Keeper and Spanish American War Navy Veteran Ernest V. Talbot: MATINICUS ROCK WEDDING – Matinicus Rock, 25 miles from Rockland, Maine, out in the open sea, is not quite so lonely a place to live upon as might be imagined. Nov. 10 H. I. Hutchins, one of the light keepers, returned to the station with his bride and was very cordially received by the keepers and their families. A bountiful supper was served at the home of F. O. Hilt, plates being laid for 15, and to which the guests did full justice followed by an enjoyable evening in which music figured. The bride and groom, who took early leave amid a shower of rice, found their new home well decorated with white ribbons and old shoes. After all was quiet, the crowd outside serenaded and made so much noise that they were quickly invited in by the groom and given refreshments. The party broke up at a late hour with all good wishes for the newly wedded pair.

"I wish students had the freedom to choose their own curriculum, and devote themselves to something they are passionate about. I'd like to see more of a connection between the curriculum and the real world so kids know why they are learning what they are learning." - Fisherman/Alumni

"I've seen a decline in respect from when I was a young fisherman. Some things not getting taught - respect, the rules of the road, watching your wake. We need to teach them these things when they are younger." - Fisherman/Alumni

"The fishing part they can learn by doing, but the business part is not really taught - the school could help with this." - Fisherman/Alumni

The 2021 Vinalhaven Housing Survey is a fast, easy, and private way to help the Housing Committee assess the community's housing needs.

The Survey is aimed at year-round residents of Vinalhaven for the purpose of understanding the barriers community members face in finding safe and affordable year-round housing on island. The survey will be open July 1st through July 30th and can be filled out anonymously. You will be able to find the survey at select locations around town, in The Wind, and online.

The results of the Survey will be compiled into a report, which will help the Committee and Select Board develop solutions to address the community's housing needs. For more information, visit www.townofvinalhaven.org/housing-committee

THE OBSERVER

I live out here in the Atlantic with another oddity, a Great Blue Heron, one who takes his breakfast most mornings behind the Marsden House, perched above the eddy formed by a calm embrace of the two Mill Stream currents. Some early mornings I stand near the bridge or up on the deck across the street or in the open door of my shop and watch him. He has enormous eyebrows, like Leonid Brezhnev. Sometimes he composes them to appear so coy I think there must be a girl Heron nearby or perhaps I am not unlike one myself. At other times his countenance is one of benign complacency, as if he's just eaten a tourist. More often though he has a droll expression and a long-suffering regard for my interest in him. I suppose I'd feel the same if every time I sat down to enjoy a meal someone appeared at the window with binoculars. pc

Dear Vinalhaven School Class of 2021,

The staff of The WIND congratulates you on your graduation and wishes you all the best. We've gathered some words of wisdom from your community to guide you as you embark on the next stage of your lives.

Say YES! to life! (Don't pass on opportunities that may only come once in your lifetime.)

If you put positive energy into the world, you'll get it in return.

Choose love.

If you don't know, ask.

Always be honest. If you think you're fooling the world you're only fooling yourself.

Congratulations to the Vinalhaven Vikings Class of 2021! All of us in the Island's Closet wish you the very best of luck in all of your future endeavors! Watch out now. The World awaits you.

If what you are doing doesn't make you happy, do something else.

Never be afraid of making a mistake, it's how we learn. Just don't make the same mistake twice!

Congratulations
2021

Find some issues that you care about and get actively involved.

Be gracious and thankful. It's important to let people know you appreciate them.

Nothing great was achieved without enthusiasm. —Ralph Waldo Emerson

Yes...you are good enough!

You don't have to plan out your whole life right now. You just have to have an idea about what you want to do NEXT, and above all else, you always have to Do the Work.

The world is full of endless possibilities. Get out there and explore!
Congratulations from Island Spirits

If college (or your job) gets tough, never hesitate to ask for help. There is no shame in needing support.

There is a big world out there. Go, explore it! See the diversity and beauty of the human race, and yes, see the darker side of us. Learn kindness and love, use your time wisely, and be generous with your friends and neighbors.

Make the most of yourself for that is all there is of you. Ralph Waldo Emerson

Wishing the class of 2021 all the best with their future endeavors! Sending success, achievement, and love to Mj as he begins boot camp next week to become a Marine—I know you can do it!
Leslie Dyer

Congratulations Seniors!!! "Find what you love to do and you'll never have to work a day in your life."

Whatever your path shall be, be kind, caring, and giving, but above all, be happy with your decisions.

Know that you are strong and resilient. You've been tested through the pandemic and are now equipped to succeed under any circumstances.

Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the things you did do, so throw off the bow line, sail away from safe harbor, catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore, dream, discover.

New beginnings are often disguised as painful endings. —Lao Tzu

Don't compare your chapter 2 to someone else's chapter 25.

The world needs who you are meant to be.
