Harbormaster Notice

Traps and equipment must be brought to the parking lot and loaded each day—no equipment is allowed overnight in the downtown parking lot. This ordinance is in effect until Labor Day. Any abandoned boat trailers will be taken to the dump soon. Come get your trailer before this happens. Please remember to give the ferry boat some room to get out of the Harbor. The captains of the ferry boat are asking for a little consideration – please give them some. Also, please slow down coming and leaving the harbor you are causing damage to your friend's skiffs that are tied up to the floats with your wake. The limit at a town float is 16 feet. If your boat is over that footage you have to find another place to dock. Big outboards used for hauling are not exempt—please move them. If you are a non-commercial boat owner and your boat is under 16 feet you need to tie up at the downtown float, not the floats at the ferry boat. The end of the floats are for pick up and drop off only. We are working on having two more floats at the ferry boat ASAP.

My phone number is now 756-0209. Please contact me with any questions, comments, or concerns.

Thank you, Jim
Harbor Master

Animal Control Notice

I have received a lot of calls about dogs that are not under their owner's control. On Pequot road a resident had her chicken killed by a loose dog. I have also had reports of dogs chasing deer. That is a good way to get your dog killed mistakenly. Please keep your dogs controlled— it's your responsibility. Make sure your dog's identity is on their collar. If you are a summer resident, or visitor, take extra care with identity by having your phone number on your dog's collar with their license tag if possible.

I would like to have all licenses done by September 21.

VINALHAVEN READS LITTLE FREE LIBRARY

Have you seen the little white and red house posted at Vinalhaven's ferry terminal parking lot? This is our Little Free Library! The idea is to 'take a book, leave a book' so there are always books available for everyone who needs a book for their ferry ride. We are looking for gently used books (that are somewhat up to date) for adults, teens, and children.

What doesn't belong in our LFL? Magazines, catalogs, books with torn or missing covers & pages, toys, clothing, and/or trash (there is a trash can nearby). We ask that you don't leave piles of books there, as they can be donated to the Second Hand Prose bookstore. Remember: take a book, leave a book!

Recipe

Apple Butter

- 4 lbs good cooking apples
- 1 cup apple cider vinegar
- 2 cups water
- 4 cups sugar
- 2 t cinnamon
- ½ t ground cloves
- ½ t. allspice
- 1 T lemon zest
- 3 T lemon juice
- Pinch of salt

Cut the apples into quarters without peeling or coring. Cut out damaged parts.

Put the quartered apples into large pot, add the vinegar and water, cover, bring to a boil, reduce heat to simmer. Cook until apples are soft, about 20 mins. Remove from heat.

Ladle apple mixture, including the liquid, into a food mill and force pulp into a large bowl.

Measure the resulting pulp. Use ½ cup of sugar for each cup of apple pulp. Stir to dissolve. Add cinnamon, cloves, allspice, lemon zest, lemon juice, and salt. Taste and adjust seasonings as needed.

Cook uncovered in a large, wide, thick-bottomed pot on medium low heat, stirring often. Scrape the bottom of pot to make sure a crust doesn't form. Cook until thick, smooth, and dark brown in color, about 1-2 hrs. Should be thick, not runny.

Use within a few weeks stored in the refrigerator, or freeze for later, or can in hot, sterilized canning jars.

Dear VH Parents and School Staff,

When our school has to “go remote”, we know it’s a huge challenge for parents and school staff. I’d like to share a few things that happened, say thanks, and explain how we ended up with excellent attendance and student participation.

When we are informed that a student has tested positive for COVID, we communicate with our local medical center, the Maine Department of Education, and the Maine CDC. The goal is to determine if other students or staff were exposed during a time when the person was potentially contagious. We do thorough contact tracing. Further testing and quarantine are sometimes recommended. Last week, we were encouraged to move school to a remote format to help prevent possible spread. It’s no surprise the recommendation was, “be cautious.” After the first week of school there were 14 district outbreaks in Maine. After the second week of school, there were 52 outbreaks.

Going remote after only four days of school means that every teacher prepares for a new format of instruction. Most of the young kids are not yet practiced at logging on and finding information, so teachers prepare that information for parents. Then, all the teachers, pK-12, work together to organize their schedules so that we avoid overlap and confusion. Finally, all of the technology and materials are gathered for every student, and then organized by family.

Last week, most teachers worked over the weekend, and then full days on Monday and Tuesday to make success possible. The food staff prepared food and organized with teachers for the pick-up time. We informed parents, and during 90 minutes on Tuesday, nearly every family had picked up all materials and food. That’s incredible! Then, Wednesday through Friday, parents, grandparents, friends and siblings helped 170 students find their classes and meet virtually with teachers. Similarly, the staff was quick to help each other and parents with technical challenges. There were glitches. And there were lots of successes!

So, a huge thank you to everyone who helped make this work. It worked well. Attendance and participation were very strong. And since things were done well, it will help with attendance and participation if we ever have to go remote again this year. Yes, because of the preparation, we can quickly “go remote” in the future if needed. But trust me, everyone is very happy to be back in school for in-person learning.

Once again, thank you for the extra efforts to help students continue to learn,

Monte Selby, Principal

Did you know...Back in the day of the Anglo-Saxons, Sept. used to be called Gerst Monath, which translates into “barley month.” It was given this name because it was the time of the year that the barley crop was harvested, and it was a special time as they brewed a popular drink out of it.

Did you know...that “you cannot be serious” is trademarked? When John McEnroe was an active tennis player, he was known for getting a bit aggressive with the umpires. While playing at Wimbledon in 1981, an umpire made a call against him, to which the Queens, NY native exclaimed, “You Cannot be Serious!” Now, he owns the famous phrase trademark.

Sinking

The whale of regret in her belly sinks her into worry, keeps her from being here among September's rain of Asters and a sun-spangled sea She cannot hear the wind or see the moonlight glimmering and although she knows she only has today she lives in tomorrows where the pain grows on in shadow feeding her daydreams of what could have been if they had only taken a different turn, opened another door, found an explanation for a life not lived in the present moment of love.

OBITUARY

Deborah French died quietly at home in Massachusetts on August 20th. She was 91 years old.

Deb and her late husband Jack were longtime seasonal residents on Vinalhaven. For many years their family rented in the summer on Barton Island, and for forty plus years they spent as much of the summer as they could on their land at Wharff Quarry.

Deb loved Vinalhaven. She loved and appreciated the community, and her many friends and neighbors. She loved the water, the land, the natural beauty of the terrain. A longtime sailor, she and Jack enjoyed time on boats together, and teaching their children and grandchildren about the wind, tide, the birds, and life on water.

Her keen eye and appreciation of beauty was with her in all aspects of her life. Deb was a prolific gardener, an enthusiastic wildflower person and horticulturalist. She never tired of discovering and noticing diversity in the natural landscape – working with the land, the rocks and granite – transplanting, cultivating, and creating lovely spaces at Wharff Quarry. She and Jack were quick to appreciate the luck and good fortune for their place and their life on Vinalhaven.

Her family is grateful for her long years and full life, and for all that she showed us and taught us over her many years.

Vinalhaven, Maine, September 29, 1956

Again, I come and sit in my back yard this beautiful September afternoon, time about 2PM. The warm sun beating down, a soft breeze gently swaying the leaves on the trees, and crickets chirping with all their might, as though this were their last day of song. A robin and other flight birds, flit and fly with short little chirps. All the flowers stand tall and beautiful, as if they too realize there will not be many days such as this for them to show their dazzling beauty. The shadows from the trees creep across the vivid green of the lawn. The blue cloudless sky reflects on the calm water of the harbor and the sun rays' sparkles on the water like a million tiny diamonds. All nature seems trying to hold fast to the beauty which fills this September day. Each minute changing into hours, each hour to days and each day to years, always leaving a trail of fond memories.

Nine years ago, as I sat here in this very spot, back from my stay in the hospital, 20th Century Fox was here in Vinalhaven making the movie 'Deep Water' and this Island town was bursting with excitement. Airplanes sailing through the sky, cars and people rushing about, and our new boat the "Hazel R", in the center of it all. I remember so well the day like this when they shot the fish buying sequence, across the harbor from here at Plato Arey's wharf. My rose garden and other flowers so beautiful, the same sparkling beauty as today, watching the crowds of people on the 'Hazel R', making history for Vinalhaven. Nothing is permanent but change. Today, as I sit here looking across the harbor, there is very little at this time, with all of the lobster boats out hauling traps. Only the hum of a motor and the singing crickets penetrate this September silence.

My eyes look once more across the harbor and gaze on the 'Hazel R', as she gently sways on her mooring, pointing her pretty bow toward the Southwest. She does not realize this will be her last Saturday riding her mooring in Vinalhaven harbor. Nine years I have watched the boat we love so well, come, and go, and have listened for the welcome sound of her engine. It has always given me a thrill watching her arrive or depart on her many voyages. Unconsciously for nine years, each day when she left the harbor, in my mind I have sailed with her and watched for her safe return. What a big place she has played in my life these nine years. The joys, the worries, the adventures, the friends we have made around the 'Hazel R'.

Now today, I sit here feasting my eyes for the last Saturday my only namesake will be riding there on the very spot where my father's boat the sloop, 'F.W. Rogers', rode for so many years of my childhood. She too sailed away many years ago. The hours Les and I worked and saved to buy the bonds which paid for the building of the 'Hazel'. All through those dark war years with our own boys in the Navy fighting for our country, while here at home their dad working day in and day out bringing in the food fish so essential to victory, an myself getting up at midnight cooking breakfast and packing his lunch, then hearing the roar of the engines as all the trawler fleet left for the fishing grounds miles offshore to set their trawls in all kinds of weather. My Les battled the weather and I watched and waited for his safe return. It seems I will always remember those black foggy nights more vivid, when everything was dripping with moisture and the world was a thick dungeon of fog. My faith had to be strong, knowing your loved one was sailing miles and miles with just an engine for power and his compass for a guide.

By,
Hazel Dyer

Tidbits from the Vinalhaven Historical Society

The Washington, Lincoln and White school buildings have been undergoing extensive and much needed repairs, made possible by the CWA. All three of the buildings have had a thorough overhauling on the inside and are probably in better condition now than at any other time during their existence, in so far as the interior is concerned. The walls of the buildings have been washed, all loose plaster removed, cracks filled and walls coated with water color of apple green shade, topped by a stencil border of moss green and red. The cupola of the Washington building, which because of decay had become a serious menace to the lives of the school children has been removed, and new green shutters on the windows have replaced the old ones. The school committee plan to make some much needed repairs on the Granite Isle and Calderwood Neck school buildings. Decorating of the buildings mentioned above was under the direction of Sidney L. Winslow, local artist and the work is highly praised.

Oct. 2 is the date of the miniature wedding at Union Church at 7 p.m. The tiny bride is Priscilla Chilles; groom Joseph Dyer; best man, Herbert Peterson and maid of honor, Norma Phillips. All the bridesmaids, parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, nephews and nieces will be there. Don't miss it.

Who says there are not some promising boys in Vinalhaven? While David Duncan, selectman of this town was in Augusta recently to meet the state assessors, his young son David, 6 1/2 years, did all the chores about the place, which included feeding sheep, hens, rabbits and even milking the cow during his father's five day absence. Pretty good for a youngster

Old Fish House Days

#46 Doc and the Pequot Goose

The old Doc loved to hunt. Sometimes he'd even do a little hunting on his rounds. These were not expeditions into the wood's hunts, more opportunistic side of the road hunts.

At the end of most days, doc stopped at his cousin's fish house where he would have a drink with the fellas before going home. There he would tell them tales of his roadside hunts if he'd had one that day, often embellishing them with dramatic details; he could spin a yarn with the best of them.

Well, one time, the fish house boys decided they' play a trick on doc (the gang often played practical jokes on each other). Old Doc always talked about wanting to get a goose. So, one of the boys carved a goose, another painted it. The "spruce goose" was then set up Pequot way where doc would be sure to see it on his rounds. Sure enough, Doc saw it right away as he watched the woods more than the road when driving. The goose was just visible through a cluster of pucker brush. Not believing his good luck he hastily pulled over in a flutter dreaming of a goose dinner. He aimed, fired, but the goose did not fall. That was odd he thought as he was sure he had got off a good shot. He then decided to go a little farther in, getting more scraped at every step. He let that goose have it again but still the goose did not fall. About then, someone came by to fetch him for a delivery. Perplexed, Doc had no choice by to abandon the hunt.

Later that day he stopped by the fish house; the fellas were already gathered for a squeakah. They could see all his pucker brush wounds and were all dying inside trying not to laugh. One of them could not wait for Doc's impending tale and blurted, "Doc, did you get a goose today?" Doc knew right then he had been had and what he answered can't be repeated here as The Wind is a family newsletter—but he did say it with a smile on his face!

THE OBSERVER

The process of living here with everyone else, a delightful process really, begins, on a winter day for instance, early, before dawn. Ralph walks by the house with his dog, Scotty, and glances in. He knows I'm at the kitchen table, next to the wood stove, having oatmeal, brown bread, coffee and grapefruit. He's been walking by at precisely the same time for so many years that he's witnessed all stages of my breakfast; knows the menu, the sequence of preparation and knows I'm listening to NPR because during warmer months my window is open. He scuffs his feet a little on the pavement knowing it will cue my dog, also expectant, to come alive with an acknowledging woof. He knows I'll look up then as his own dog barks in reply. Mine is the first face he will see today and his is the first I will encounter although, in absence of a little moonlight, I only know he's there; I can't see him. He waves at me and I wave at the barking blackness. An island day begins. pc

Fun Birthdate
Sept. 23, 1838, Victoria Woodhull was the first woman to run for President of the U.S.
despite the fact, at the time
(1872), she couldn't legally vote! Women in office was a radical idea, but Woodhull was a radical woman in many ways.
She divorced twice, invested in the stock market, published a newspaper, and worked as a clairvoyant. Woodhull ran for president on the Equal Rights
Party Ticket but spent election night in jail on indecency charges for calling out the hypocrisy of a local minister. ....mental floss
